the world economy is just starting to recover from the most disastrous episode in the history of financial globalisation understanding what happened is essential anton brender and florence pisani both economists with dexia asset management and teaching at paris dauphine university argue in this book that the main problems were deeply rooted and are to be found in two tightly linked developments that for many years were left largely uncontrolled the increase in the intensity of international transfers of savings the so called global imbalances and a wave of innovations globalised finance that have changed the way savings and the risks associated with their investment can be transferred globalised finance allowed continuously increasing amounts of emerging countries savings invested in risk free assets to finance loans that were far from being risk free the risks attendant on those loans did not vanish of course they were carried by the risk takers of the globalised financial system hedge funds investment banks off balance sheet vehicles etc functioned here as parts of a genuine alternative banking system taking on the bulk of the liquidity interest rate and credit risks generated by the mismatch between the assets that emerging regions savers were ready to or could invest in and the liabilities developed countries borrowers issued unfortunately no one was in charge of keeping in check either the quantity of risk being accumulated in this way or the quality of the loans generating those risks the consequence was terrible the only force that could finally rein in the continuous deepening of the global imbalances was the collapse of globalised finance
